EX-U. S. SENATOR SHOT

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 5.—Former Senator Henderson, of Nevada, was shot through the wrist today in his office, by Charles A. Grock, a former resident of Nevada. The senator was given medical treatment and his assailant was locked up by the police.

Grock, who is 65 years old, and lives in Paloma Park, Maryland, near this city, told the police that 25 years ago the former senator was counsel for him in a land case and that the shooting was an outgrowth of that. The senator apparently was not dangerously wounded.

Mr. Henderson said Grock formerly lived at Elko, Nevada, and had been treated for mental disorders. When the man reached the office he acted strangely, Mr. Henderson said, and when invited to call later, said: "No, I guess we had better settle this now," and drew a revolver.

Mr. Henderson threw up his right arm and the bullet entered near the wrist, inflicting apparently only a flesh wound.

While the wound was being treated, Mr. Henderson, who retired from the senate yesterday, laughingly said it would amount to nothing. After receiving first aid, however, he was taken to a hospital in an ambulance to have an x-ray picture taken and to receive more adequate treatment.

Stenographers in Mr. Henderson's office screamed, and clerks and senators rushed out from offices all along the corridor holding Grock until Capitol and city police arrived.

SOVIET FORTRESS AT KRONSTADT FALLS INTO REVOLUTIONISTS HANDS

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 5.—Official information that the Soviet fortress at Kronstadt had fallen into the hands of revolutionary troops was received today by the Finnish legation.

LONDON, March 5.—This evening's newspapers print a dispatch from Helsingfors which declared the anti-Soviet outbreak has not been suppressed, but on the contrary, is spreading.

The message asserts that both Moscow and Petrograd are in the hands of the revolutionists.

These reports follow denials in official Moscow, wireless messages recently that there were any disturbances in either of the cities named, and carrying a statement by M. Tchitcherine, the Soviet foreign minister, denouncing recent news of Russian disorders circulated through Latvia as "a campaign of lies."

Reports from Scandinavian sources received Friday, declared conditions in both Moscow and Petrograd were serious, some of the reports stating that there was a pronounced movement among the troops against using force in dealing with the revolutionaries.

SPIRIT OF WILSON UNBROKEN DESPITE PHYSICAL COLLAPSE

BY DAVID LAWRENCE (Copyright, 1921, by Times Pub. Co.)

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Woodrow Wilson's last hour as president of the United States was a curious one, mingling of sadness and attempted cheerfulness. For a moment the president appeared as the decrepit figure that he has often been pictured since his physical collapse two years ago and then again as he sat at his desk and signed bills with a firm hand and a steady pen, his eyes burned with the fire of the soldier who never surrenders.

To the last, Woodrow Wilson seemed to be in a fighting mood, though everybody who stood around him felt that his feeble figure belied his attempts to appear in his belligerent spirit of old.

Smiles Despite Handicaps

Slowly Mr. Wilson wended his way along the corridor for fifty feet from the elevator just to the right of the Senate chamber. As he proceeded slowly he leaned on his cane and was unaided. His left shoulder was stooped and his left hand hung limply at his side. As former mayor "Honey" Fitzgerald of Boston extended his hand to greet the president, Mr. Wilson quickly hung the hook of his cane in the upper pocket of his overcoat, and standing for a moment, smiled his greeting. Senator Sherman of North Carolina, who walked along beside Mr. Wilson and asked him if he would go out to the front of the capitol to witness the inauguration of Mr. Harding but in a hollow voice Mr. Harding replied that he feared he did not have the strength to do it.

Thankful For Compliments

The Times indeed appreciates the many compliments that it has received upon the manner in which the inauguration of President Harding was covered. Every effort was made to cover all angles of the inauguration, and the Times carried as complete an account of this important historical event as any paper we have seen. The appreciation shown by our readers is full return for all the effort and expense necessary of furnishing this service.

DRY LEADER SEEKS REMOVAL OF MAYOR GALVIN OF CINCINNATI

CINCINNATI, O., March 5.—Attorney George S. Hawke, Cincinnati "dry" leader, seeks the removal of Mayor John Galvin, of Cincinnati, on the charge of failure to enforce the prohibition laws. This was disclosed today when he entered suit in the Ohio Supreme Court to mandamus Governor Harry L. Davis to serve notice on Mayor Galvin, of charges filed by Hawke against the mayor with the governor on February 24 last. The suit demands that the court compel the governor to investigate the charges and if they are sustained by evidence to remove Mayor Galvin.

The petition further recites that because of wilful and gross neglect of the respondent to enforce the prohibition laws of the state, intoxicating liquors are now being openly sold in thousands of places in Cincinnati, principally former saloons, drug stores and pool rooms. The suit also sets forth that drunkenness has increased in this city over the period following the date when the prohibition amendment went into effect.

"The suit is a surprise to me and I am not worrying about it," said Mayor Galvin. "There is less violation of the prohibition laws in Cincinnati than in any other city in the country. It is such narrow-minded people as Mr. Hawke that makes the enforcement of the prohibition laws difficult. As for removing me from office, I hope he succeeds," added the mayor facetiously.

Stunt Flying In New York Barred

Iron-ton Girl Jumps To Death

NEW YORK, March 5.—Bonnie Woodward, 26, a chorus girl, jumped to her death here early today from the fifth story window of a West Forty-seventh street hotel. She had appeared depressed for weeks, friends said.

Reported to be the estranged wife of a Pittsburgh, Pa., man, the young woman registered at the hotel Monday. She is said to have relatives in Trenton, Ohio.

Central American War First To Demand Attention Of The New Administration

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 5.—Hostilities between Panama and Costa Rica was the first subject to occupy the attention today of the new administration.

President Harding had a long conference with his new secretary of state, Charles Evans Hughes, regarding the situation and they called in John W. Weeks, the new secretary of war, who had with him the latest dispatches as to the conflict between the Central American republics.

Before calling on the president, Mr. Hughes discussed the subject at some length, with Under-Secretary Davis at the State Department, Henry P. Fletcher, who is to be the new under-secretary, was present at this conference, but did not accompany his chief to the White House.

When Mr. Hughes left the White House he said there was nothing to be given out; that he had discussed a number of subjects with the president.

Secretary of Navy Daniels before he surrendered his office to Mr. Denby, said the gunboat Sacramento had been ordered to Almirante in compliance with the request for warships and that Rear Admiral Bryan, commanding the special service squadron had been instructed to protect American lives and property if necessary with whatever force he needed.

What other steps might be taken here was not indicated. It was understood however, that Secretary Hughes was in accord with the note sent by the retiring administration urging the two governments to reach a peaceful settlement of the dispute. State Department officials, however, were inclined to view landing of Costa Rican troops beyond the frontiers of Panama as making the situation more complex.

HARDING HAS TURNED BACK ON THE PARIS NATION LEAGUE

BY ROBERT T. SMALL (Copyright, 1921, by Times Pub. Co.)

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Clothed with the high authority of the Presidency and speaking officially for America for the first time, Warren G. Harding once more turned his back upon the League of Nations, as it is functioning at Paris and Geneva.

In his inaugural address he extolled the wisdom "of the inherited policy of non-involvement in Old World Affairs" and declared that America "has no part in directing the destinies of the Old World." A world "super-government," the new President asserted in his first public utterance, "is contrary to everything we cherish and can have no sanction by our republic."

This was the one definite note in the inaugural address, one of the shortest in recorded history, as to his own ideas of an association of nations. Mr. Harding spoke only in a general way. He would not commit the United States to anything more than a readiness to associate with the nations of the world, great and small, for conference and for counsel, and to seek a means of general disarmament.

A distinguished company of world diplomats heard the new American President pronounce the outline of his foreign policy and they saw in his statement the end of Europe's hopes.

European Comment On Harding's Address

English

MANCHESTER, ENGLAND.—President Harding indicated his willingness to enter some sort of organization which would prevent future wars, says the Manchester Guardian. The newspaper adds that Mr. Harding is called upon to bridge a difficult passage in America's relations with the rest of the world.

"The political exigency" it continues, "dictated that the whole plan of the League of Nations which Mr. Wilson helped to inspire, must be sacrificed in America, even before it could properly be understood. The march of world events and of world aspirations makes it clear that some form of a league must and will compensate for the horrors of war. What is to be the new American government's attitude toward it?"

Mr. Harding tells us, and his message is carefully wrapped up in one hope. Through the whole address runs a powerful current of that determination to help to make future wars impossible which led to the foundation of the League of Nations.

LEEDS, ENGLAND.—The Yorkshire Post thinks the function of the United States in world politics may be best performed by an endeavor to create an atmosphere unfavorable to war rather than by an attempt to invent machinery for rendering war impossible.

LIVERPOOL.—The Post says he lays stress upon the urgency of an international understanding, but at the same time proclaims himself as an isolationist.

"The whole address," says the news-

French

PARIS.—Newspapers here appeared to feel the change in American administration is one "from the frying pan into the fire," as far as Europe is concerned. Disappointment over the fact that Mr. Harding failed to make definite statements regarding his attitude on important affairs in Europe, was evident.

"No word for the allies," said the Petit Parisien, "their names were not even mentioned. No charge against the Germans, who probably, by their accustomed obtuseness, interpret this as encouragement."

Emphasis was laid on Mr. Harding's protectionist intentions by the Echo de Paris, which said: "That perhaps was the most positive part of the speech. The line of conduct Mr. Harding's government may follow in practice was in no way predicted."

"This document, which was so impossibly awaited," declared the Figaro, "enlightens us most completely upon the political intentions of the new president."

While regretting the absence of mention of reparations and other problems before European governments, L'Avenir concluded: "But silence does not mean indifference."

It's kind of hard to stick around a weather bureau this kind of weather. A fellow'd rather be out carrying a pole and can of bait. Here's for tomorrow:

OHIO—Showers probable tonight and Sunday. Warner tonight. Colder in west portion Sunday.

KENTUCKY—Unsettled, with showers and thunder storms probably late tonight or Sunday.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 5.—Weather predictions for the week beginning Monday, are:

Ohio Valley and Tennessee, Region of the Great Lakes—Generally fair. Temperature near or above normal.

The extremes in local temperature (today were): High, 73; low, 37.

COURT HOUSE

The divorce suit of Rachael Herrick, New Boston, against Carl Herrick formerly of this city, now in the U. S. navy, was partially heard by Judge Thomas in Common Pleas court Saturday and then continued for further evidence.

The plaintiff told the court that after she married Herrick on March 8, 1919, he was cruel in his conduct toward her and declared that he carried around and associated with other women. She further asserted that on June 6, 1920, the defendant without going through the formality of obtaining a divorce married one Alice Jester at Baltimore, Md.

In addition to a divorce the wife seeks to be restored to her former name of Wilkoff. She is represented by Attorney W. R. Sprague.

After hearing the evidence in the divorce and alimony suit of Catherine Jenkins, 825 Mill street, against Evan Jenkins, moving van employe, Thirtieth street, Judge Thomas in Common Pleas court Saturday dismissed her petition and then continued the case to give the defendant further opportunity to present additional testimony in support of his cross petition.

They were married Aug. 9, 1906, when the plaintiff was but 13 years old. She told the court and charged that he neglected to support her and their four children and was cruel toward her.

Jenkins denied her charges and accused her of improper conduct with other men, naming George Turner and James Morgan, of Mill street, at whose home the plaintiff has resided for the past year.

Attorney W. R. Sprague for the wife and Attorney E. G. Millar for Jenkins.

Minor Charges Plea; Sentenced

William Minor, aged 20 years, of New Boston, was sentenced to the Mansfield Reformatory by Judge Thomas in Common Pleas court Saturday when he appeared and changed his plea from not guilty to guilty of burglarizing The Lumber Company warehouse at Sciotoville last December of goods valued at $108.

Three others were implicated in the robbery and Minor before he was sentenced told the court that John Mosley was the leader in committing the crime. Mosley has not been arrested but the cases of two others were disposed of by the juvenile court by reason of their ages.

Boyd Pleads Guilty; Sentenced

Richard H. Boyd, aged 22 years, former express messenger, of Elizabeth street, charged in two counts of an indictment with embezzlement and larceny in connection with the theft of money from employers. The American Railway Express company, was sentenced to an indeterminate term in the Mansfield Reformatory by Judge Thomas Saturday when he changed his plea from not guilty to guilty to the first count of the indictment. The other count was ordered notified by the court.

Judge Blair, representing Boyd, said in behalf of his client that the messenger service seemed to have a large effect upon many men entering it by reason of the bad influence, pointing out that a number of local young men with excellent reputations have fallen after being in that service but a comparatively short time. He urged that the bad environment was greatly responsible for young Boyd being in court to meet such a charge.

The court in passing sentence called attention to the deplorable condition caused by the systematic stealing from railroad and express companies by employees and that in the last three or four years the practice amounted to an epidemic. The court added that the object of punishment is to make an example and deter others.

Graham Sentenced to Reformatory

When Roy Graham, West End young man, appeared before Judge Thomas in Common Pleas court Saturday morning he withdrew his former plea of not guilty and entered a plea of guilty to a charge of participating in the Clever and Tietzel safe robbery on the night of Dec. 30, 1920, with Charles Ray, Paul Schreick and Ray Taylor. Attorney Theo. K. Funk representing the accused, made a plea for a suspended sentence, declaring that Graham did not actually aid or assist in removing the safe and that he did not receive a cent of the stolen money. The attorney asserted that Graham was intoxicated at the time on flour furnished by the others and that he did not associate at the time with actual participants.

Judge Thomas in sentencing Graham to the Reformatory stated that the court could not discriminate between those implicated in the robbery except in view of the fact that Ray Taylor, for probable the least guilty of the several, had pleaded guilty and received his sentence.

All those implicated in the robbery have now been sentenced except Paul Schreick, who has been committed to the juvenile court for person of his age. He is under 18 years old at the time of the crime, it is claimed.

Shaw Abolish Gail

Charles Shaw, North End young man, charged with a charge of participating in the theft with Thomas Rietos and John Rietos of an automobile from the Police Department on the evening of Nov. 10, 1920, was sentenced to an indeterminate term in the Mansfield Reformatory.

Graham was convicted of the robbery and sentenced to the reformatory several weeks ago but Bates has not been apprehended.

It is a double vessel, one tankard fitting closely into the other, and is said to have been the artist's own design and reserved for himself and his wife. When he was in good humor, says tradition, Durer and the other tankard taken out and filled for his wife, when displeased he kept both tankards together for his own use and let his companion go dry.

Moral Forces Alone Are Permanent

The New York Times last Sunday devoted most of its editorial page to a summary of the work of Woodrow Wilson during the eight years he spent in the White House. Whether or not men commend the policies Mr. Wilson urged as President, all thinking men agree with the tenet which The Times calls fundamental in his policy: "The greatest forces in the world, and the only permanent forces, are the moral forces."

Men who handle large sums of money, men who manufacture what we call electricity, men who employ large bodies of workers, can well ponder this truth: The greatest and only permanent forces in the world are moral forces.

The wise man will seek to link his life with the moral forces.

Where but in the church are moral forces developed? Where but in the church do we find the sources of moral forces?

Business men can well think on these things.

Attend the church of your choice tomorrow. If your church is conducting special evangelistic meetings, be present and learn what the eternal power of God has wrought in the hearts of men.
You will be better able to meet the difficulties of the week.

The churches of Portsmouth invite you.

Your Manners

It Is Correct

For the bride or her mother to give the ushers at a church wedding directions for their parts.

For a man who is to act as usher at a wedding to appear at the rehearsal if one is called.

For each usher to send a gift to the bride.

For the ushers to be at the church half an hour before the doors are opened.

For the head ushers to see that the lights, the decorations and ventilation are right, and that the organist knows what music is to be played.

It Is Not Correct

For the organist at a church wedding to arrive less than half an hour before the doors are opened.

When white ribbon is to be used to reserve certain pews at a church wedding for the bride to neglect to give it to the ushers.

For the bride to list her family and friends for the reserved pews without including members and dearest friends of her fiancé's family.

For the ushers to take the guests up the center aisle after the central front doors of the church have been closed upon the arrival of the bridal procession.

For a woman to refuse the proffered arm of the usher who shows her to her seat at a church wedding.

HOOPS ARE BACK, MY DEARS, IN DAINY PARTY FROCKS

Hoop skirts have returned, at least they are to be popular for party and other formal frocks. This lovely lace gown at the left is a Lucile model made of gold shot silk with a hoop skirt of black lace forming an effective veiling. The gown is rather Spanish in its design and altogether charming for the youthful figure.

And when hoop skirts come in the capes, of course, must follow for who could wear a snug wrap over a voluminous hoop skirt. At the right is seen an exquisite wrap for spring and summer wear. It is a wonderful cape of ribbon, fringed and lined with jade tulle with an Elizabethan collar of the silk and long narrow jade ribbon streamers for a fastening. This, too, is especially designed for youth.

BILLY WHISKER

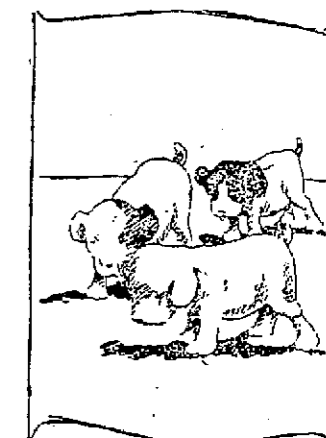

Pussy continued her story about the little puppy who threatened to steal her kittens:

"I laughed and passed the threat off as a joke, but the next day when I came home from a visit to a cat in the house next door, I found Pettie and all my kittens gone, and then I remembered what she had said. I looked all over the house for them, even going into the spare room that no one is allowed to go into, unless there is company in the house, looking under beds, in shoe boxes, down the cellar, under the wood shed, everywhere, in fact, I searched the premises over for them, but not a kitten could I find, neither did Pettie appear. Then I went to Miss Lacy and mewed out my trouble, but she did not understand me and only said, 'What is the matter, Kittie, are you hungry?'"

"Then I told my trouble to Mary, the cook, but she only said, 'Scat! get out from under my feet before I spill gravy on you!'"

"Then I went to the stable to tell Hiram. He said, 'Hello, Pussy, I haven't seen you out here in the barn for a long time. How is your family this morning?'"

"At the mention of my family I began to cry harder than ever, and he said, 'Why, Pussy! You must be sick. Go and eat some catnip and you will feel better.' This provoked me so that I started to run out of the barn, when I thought I heard a little kitten's mew. I stopped to listen, and sure enough, I heard the sound again. But where did it come from? Under the barn, in the mow, or behind the out-gut? I ran hither and thither, kicking up the dust in my haste to find where the mewer came from, and then I stopped again and heard Pettie sneeze right behind me on the other side of the board partition in the horses' stalls. I was over the mangers in a jiffy, and there, down on a pile of straw under the manger, was Pettie, curled up as comfortably as could be, with my five little kittens beside her. The first I had stirred up had made her sneeze, thus betraying her hiding place. Well, I won't take time to tell you what I said to her, or

Just as the last story was finished, Ploose felt two big drops of rain on her nose, and looking up, was surprised to see that a dark rain cloud was approaching the moon and that it would soon pass over it. Others in the audience were likewise surprised at the change in the weather, for they had all been so interested in the stories that they had not noticed the approaching storm.

(Tomorrow the meeting breaks up and Nannie and Billy's first new adventure is ended.)

Her Own Career

(BY PHYLIS PHILLIPS)

THE DAY OF THE PREMIER

In the midst of her frugal meal the telephone rang again and this time it was Fedya, to ask her if she would come over and pose for him in the afternoon.

Gwendolyn snapped back a prompt "no," and then went on to tell him that she was opening that evening with the Russian ballet.

There was sincere regret in Fedya's voice as he heard her news, but he said little outside of remarking that he had warned her that she was making a mistake in throwing in her lot with them. To this Gwendolyn left a deaf ear, announcing that she was in the middle of her breakfast and begged to be excused. She had avoided Fedya religiously since her last visit to his studio and it jarred her now to have him thrust under her nose as it were, and at the wrong time.

Her talk with John Neale, the night of their dinner party, had helped to open her eyes to her own danger, besides some of her own quiet reflections alone during the past two weeks. Gwendolyn now congratulated herself on having awakened to her own silliness just in time. She had no intention of placing herself in any such situation again.

After she had finished her breakfast she called up many of her friends and told them with glee of her new venture in the world of the stage, and asked them one and all to be present at the opening that night. Great excitement reigned for an hour or more, as she and her pals kept the wires humming and great was the delight expressed by most of them at her news.

One and all promised to be among those present, no matter what, and Gwendolyn felt elated beyond all words as she realized just how many good friends and well-wishers she had in this happy-go-lucky little crowd of artists.

Her only regret was that the tailor Russe was scheduled for a road engagement and would necessitate her leaving her pleasant life here, of course, everything had its compensations. She would be seeing new types and new country all the time, after she left New York. That meant a great deal to her.

After clearing away her dishes, she went through the motions of cleaning up the apartment, dusted the bookshelves, even as Fern had been in the habit of doing, put away her garments that she had gathered here and there over the furniture in her hurry to get to bed the night before, and finally went into her own room to

WOMEN FIGHT ON SECOND STREET

You have heard about hair-pulling matches between women, but residents of Second street near Gay who saw a fight staged this afternoon about two o'clock between two women say that unless you saw that rumpus you don't know what real hair pulling means. The woman who started the trouble told eye-witnesses of the scrap that the other woman had said some things about her husband, and when she "met up" with her she thought she would give her a good licking. Maybe she did but she was also pretty badly disheveled herself and her face was bleeding from numerous scratches.

The women made their getaway before the police were notified.

ITCHING ECZEMA DRIED RIGHT UP WITH SULPHUR

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying a little Menthosulphur, says a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly brings ease from skin irritation, soothes and heals the eczema right up and leaves the skin clear and smooth.

It seldom fails to relieve the torment and disfigurement. Sufferers from skin trouble should get a little jar of Menthosulphur from any good drugist and use it like a cold cream.

Further work on the job pending an investigation by the Board of Control. It is said that the principal objections to the sewer is that its elevation is not low enough to drain the cellars of a number of the property owners and as the job is only about half finished it is hoped that the error, if any, can yet be corrected.

The S. Monro and Son company have the contract for building the sewer which is to be according to the plans 1200 feet in length.

IF BACK HURTS — BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush Your Kidneys Occasionally if You Eat Meat Regularly

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally. Says a well-known authority, "Meats form acids which clog the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys."

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then and there find. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders. Jad Salts is inexpensive and can't injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.—adv.

Spirit Of Wilson

(Continued from page one) did he seem nervous and ill at ease. Gradually he recovered his composure. Warren Harding stood over him, bending low and almost paternally over the man whose arduous labors in the presidential office had caused his physical if not political overthrow. It was evident that a kindly feeling existed between the two men, intensified indeed by the human quality which his colleagues had found in Harding before his death.

Mr. Harding made it clear that if Mr. Wilson did not feel strong enough to go outdoors, he would not regard it as a discourtesy and he urged Mr. Wilson not to do anything that would tax his strength.

Mr. Wilson had better not try it," remarked Mr. Wilson and Mr. Harding passed out to the Republican cloak room while the outgoing president signed bills. The first measure placed before him was a bill authorizing additional expenditures for hospital facilities to take care of disabled soldiers. Every now and then the signing of bills would be interrupted by a hand shake for some member of Congress who had stepped in the room to pay his respects. When General Pershing stepped forward, Woodrow Wilson smiled and extended his hand said:

Courteous to the Last

"Excuse me, General, for not rising." Courteous to the last, Mr. Wilson had many kind words of greeting for his former associates. Bainbridge Collier greeted him for a while and standing close at hand as of old was Postmaster General Burleson.

It was a truly Democratic setting. Josephus Daniels was there and Newton Baker, and David F. Houston and Edward Meredith—all the cabinet in fact, and Senators Underwood, Robinson, Harrison, Heilmann and others who have been close to Mr. Wilson. Each one was called by name and cordially, as Mr. Wilson sat at his desk for years felt that he looked just as healthy and acted just as naturally as in the earlier years of his administration when he came to the president's room.

"Well, I think I had better soon go," remarked Mr. Wilson with a laugh, but just at that moment a committee from both Houses of Congress appeared in the room. Senator Henry Cabot Lodge and former Speaker Joseph Cannon, veteran Republicans, were in the front row of the committee directly facing Mr. Wilson. Quickly there came over the Wilson countenance that frigid expression which has on more than one occasion been employed by him to express his displeasure. It was evident that Mr. Wilson was trying hard to fight back some three feet of him that rebuffed at the necessity of receiving that final communication from Mr. Lodge.

"This committee begs to inform you," said Senator Lodge, "that the two Houses have completed their work and are prepared to receive any further communication from you."

Old Spirit in Final Greeting

Mr. Woodrow Wilson's face flushed. His eyes were fixed upon the eyes of Senator Lodge. These two men stood face to face in the final scene of what has been perhaps the greatest of battles in American history over the ratification of a treaty. Clearly and seemingly with the benevolent spirit of the past, Mr. Wilson said:

"I have no further communication."

It would be hard if you would inform both houses and thank them for their courtesy—good morning sir."

It was that final "good morning sir" which seemed to cut the air with its finality and coldness. Nothing more formal would have been spoken. Nothing more fittingly represented the inward emotions of the outgoing president as he performed his last formal act as president of the United States. He turned quickly in his swivel chair, willing hands helped him with his coat. Warren H. Harding again came forward to wish Mr. Wilson good health. Mrs. Wilson with characteristic gracefulness told Mr. Harding she wished him all the luck in the world and gradually the picture faded.

"I'm afraid, I shall have to beg off," was Mr. Wilson's final remark to Mr. Harding, who told him he thoroughly understood. Then it was that Mr. Wilson, with halting step and downcast head, his left shoulder stooped but his eyes curved upward, endeavoring to smile, trying to the end to exhibit a fighting spirit and an attitude of no surrender passed out of official life into the sunshine of the capital grounds there to be restored to the privacy of his new home and the consoling atmosphere of old acquaintances and friends, faithful to the last to the idealism that once thrilled a war-torn world.

Harding

(Continued from page one) that with politics adjourned, and the responsibilities of the Presidency upon him, Mr. Harding might take a new view of the League of Nations and view adherence to it with certain reservations. But Mr. Harding has said that he interprets the "solemn referendum" of last November as directing him in the path he should go. This path, as he sees it, leads clear of European involvements. The new President asserted that was not a selfish desire. America, he said, had proved her unselfishness. There had been no American failure when civilization was threatened and there would be no failure today or tomorrow.

America, under the new guidance, will do all in her power to prevent war in the world and in no circumstances will this country give to another nation the provocation of armed attack. But if war came, Mr. Harding said, he hoped it would be a war of universal service.

Hostilities

(Continued from page one) Sixola river which forms the boundary between Costa Rica and Panama, the Costa Ricans captured the town of Guabito, and advanced southward, reaching Almirante, twenty miles from the frontier, yesterday afternoon. Unorganized Panamanian forces in the Almirante evacuated the town and retreated without loss.

A bridge across the Sixola river, owned by the United Fruit Company, has been blown up it is reported.

National defense measures passed last evening in the national assembly have upon approval by President Porras. They authorize the expenditure of $100,000 for the formation of a national army of full strength, and the formation of a $500,000 international loan for ten years at seven percent.

President Porras has named a defense council of five which will be entrusted with the selection of men for the Panama army. All men between the ages of 18 and 40 who have been called to the colors will be examined or once, and the technical training of the national forces is being planned. Many foreigners in Panama are joining a legion that is being organized by John P. Sheridan. Military organization plans here are being held in abeyance, however, because of the lack of arms for the soldiers.

A Free Booklet On The Care Of Food In The Home.

Every woman should know all about the care of food in the home. She should know how to guard against damage from flies, dust, mold and everything else that will ruin what the family eats. If a woman is not wise and vigilant in these matters she not only risks her own health, but that of all whom she serves.

Now Uncle Sam comes to help out in this important matter.

A free booklet is waiting for every woman who will send for it—a booklet which gives the results of careful scientific study on the safe way to keep all kinds of food. It has many illustrations.

Send for a copy and send the name of some other woman who may not see this offer.

Christianity Vs. Churchianity

Sunday afternoon at 2:30 Pastor W. H. Spring will lecture in the Temple Theatre using for his subject "Christianity versus Churchianity—'Orthodoxy' versus Bible." Because of certain recent happenings, this lecture will doubtless attract a large audience. Mr. Spring has important lecture appointments for fully two months in advance and it is likely that this will be his last appearance before a local public audience for some time, unless unforeseen circumstances should cause him to change his plans.

Pastor Spring states that he will treat his subject Sunday afternoon in a truly Christian manner; that no Christians of either the past or present will be stirred or slandered, not even those who are most vigorous in their condemnation of Bible Students, for, he claims, such condemnation comes from a misapprehension of Bible Student teachings rather than from an understanding of them.

As usual the lecture will be free. No collection will be held and nothing sold. The public is invited.

Coughs and Colds That "Hang On"

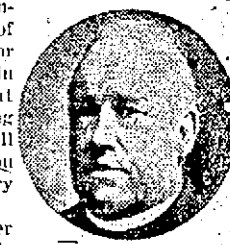

A Real Menace To Everybody—How To Get Rid of Them

If you cannot get rid of your cough or cold—It is in spite of what you are doing for it. It still hangs on, you are in very real danger.

The longer you have this irritating cough or long-standing cold, the more your resisting power is lowered and the greater need for a wholesome food tonic.

You will find the strength-giving resistance power to get rid of that cold or cough in Father John's Medicine. It soothes and heals the irritating passages, drives off impurities and actually rebuilds wasted flesh and strength.

You can give Father John's Medicine to any member of your family with entire safety because it is guaranteed free from alcohol or dangerous drugs in any form whatever.

Stomach Upset?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without gripping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 15c and 30c.

IMPORTANT MEASURES WERE PASSED BY THE SIXTY-SIXTH CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, Mar. 5.—Rejection of the Treaty of Versailles, a sharp fight on President Wilson by Republican leaders, adoption of the woman suffrage constitutional amendment and passage of the prohibition enforcement act were outstanding features of the sessions of the Sixty-sixth Congress which passed out Friday to make way for the Sixty-seventh Congress, soon to be called in extra session by President Harding.

Sweep into control of both the Senate and House near the end of the year after President Wilson had appealed to the country in 1918 to return a Democratic majority to Congress, the Republicans organized all committees at the opening of the session in 1919 and immediately launched an attack on the administration. This centered around the Treaty of Versailles, which was taken up in the Senate before it was signed at Paris.

Other acts of the administration which came in for criticism included the sending of troops to Russia, the handling of deportation cases and the signing up of war contracts. Investigations of many phases of war activities also were undertaken and continued through most of the year.

Four vetoes overridden

Four vetoes of important measures by the President also were overridden by the Sixty-sixth Congress. The measure passed after their disapproval by Mr. Wilson included the prohibition enforcement act and joint resolutions increasing the size of the regular army to 175,000 men, repealing the daylight savings law and reviving the War Finance Corporation. In the case of one important matter, the Knox resolution to declare the state of war with Germany at an end, the Presidential veto stood.

Besides the war inquiries many others were conducted including those into the 1919 steel strike, the spread of radical propaganda, the coal and housing situations, the controversy between Secretary Daniels and Rear Admiral Sims over naval medals, campaign expenditures, Shipping Board operations, the Ford-Newberry election, radical deportation cases, and the escape to Germany of Grever Bergdoll, Philadelphia draft evader.

International disarmament was a subject occupying much attention at the closing session. Inquiries being conducted by both House and Senate committees. Final action was deferred and the whole question left over to the Harding administration. The Senate Naval Committee recommended, however, that there be no building of American naval construction at this time.

Some Important Measures Passed

Important measures passed by the Sixty-sixth Congress besides the prohibition enforcement law, the suffrage amendment, and the resolution to revive the War Finance Corporation included:

The Transportation Act.
The Merchant Marine Act.
The Edge bill for foreign finance corporations.

The oil and gas leasing laws.
The army reorganization act.
The waterpower development bill.
A bill abolishing the United States Housing Corporation.

In addition to the usual supply measures were put through and preliminary ground work laid by the House Ways and Means Committee for revising both tariff and tax laws.

There were three sessions of the Sixty-sixth Congress. The first, an extraordinary one called by President Wilson by cable from Paris after failure of some of the big appropriation measures in the preceding Congress, met on May 19, 1919, and continued just six months, to Nov. 19. The second session, a regular one, began on December 1, 1919, and continued to June 5, 1920, ending just before the national political conventions. The third and final session began last December 6. Including the sessions during the war and earlier, Congress has been sitting virtually in continuous session for a decade.

The Versailles treaty was the great bone of contention during both the first and second sessions. It was twice defeated, first on Nov. 19, 1919, and again on April 19, 1920, when, by a vote of 47 to 37, it was returned to

MANY MEMBERS OF HOUSE AND SENATE RETIRE TO RANKS

WASHINGTON, Mar. 5.—One hundred and twenty-nine members of the House and Senate retired Friday to private life. Most of them went out in the back wash from the tidal wave which swept the Republican party in to full control of all the functions of the Government, but some few, Republicans as well as Democrats, elected not to run again for their seats.

Champ Clark, one of those who would have retired Friday, was dined by death two days before the session ended. A picturesque character among the outgoing members was Senator Lawrence Y. Sherman, Republican, Illinois, who did not offer for re-election.

The actual number of House members retiring was 118, but three of these—McKibbin, of Illinois; Bland, of Oklahoma, Republican and Carey, of Arkansas, Democrat, go to the other end of the Capitol as senators. McKibbin's House record was fourteen years.

Say Republican Control Too Unwieldy

A political aside of November 2 gave the Republicans a much larger working majority in the House—225 in the opinion of some leaders. The new extra session expected to be called soon will start with 301 Republicans, 129 Democrats and one socialist.

The lone prohibitionist in the closing Congress, Walter, which the country went dry was beaten. There is one man shy from Pennsylvania—large. The republican vacancy caused by the death of the member, elected will not be filled until fall.

The new Senate which convened today in special session to get on nominations by President Harding, contains 59 Republicans and 37 Democrats giving the Republicans a majority of 22 as against only two majority during most of the last Congress, when the lineup generally was 49 Republicans and 47 Democrats. The seating of two Republicans in January in place of Democrats gave the former a slightly larger working margin during the last few weeks.

Women Members in House

For the second time in history the House will have a woman member, Miss Alice M. Robertson, of the Second Congressional District who succeeds William W. Hastings.

For the first time in the history of the House the territory east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio river will dominate legislation, republicans from that area being in full control and strong enough to overcome all combinations of Republicans and Democrats from the South and West.

Many places formerly held by veterans and politics, but some veteran politicians came in, among them Theodore Burton, of Ohio, a former Senator, and Burke Cockran, of New York. Champ Clark is to be succeeded by a man new in Congress, although his services were not continuous. Mr. Clark's total time was 26 years, running third in that respect to Cannon and Speaker Gillett. Two Tennessee Democrats—Stamps and Moore—turned over their desks to younger men after coming here together 24 years ago.

Leading Democrats Retire

Two leading Democrats on the Ways and Means Committee which must frame a tariff law, Henry T. Rainey, of Illinois, and Hall of Tennessee—married one Rainey after eleven years and Hall fourteen. Sherwood, of Ohio, who went into the Union army as a private and came out a brigadier general, retired with sixteen years marked on his legislative gun, the same mark set by Goldsboro, of New York, whose place was taken by Meyer London, the only Socialist winner in November. Other prominent Democrats retiring were Scott Ferris, Okla., and Geo. Tex., brother-in-law of the retiring Postmaster General Burleson.

The delegation from fourteen states many of them with small representation retained anchored. Callahan and Tamm, both of Boston, are the sole and solid Democratic representation from all New England. Ohio, the state of Presidential nominees, sent a solid republican delegation.

Thus far there have been no indications of a determined fight to oust Speaker Gillett, of the Republican leader. Kitchin long Island absent, is slated for Democratic leadership, the job he held while Clark was speaker.

Other Notables Retiring

Prominent among the twelve Democratic and two republican senators retiring today besides Senator Sherman were Senators Chandlerlain, Oregon; Former Democratic Chairman of the Military Committee; Grand, North Dakota, former Republican chairman of the Agriculture Committee; Ho, South, Democrat, Georgia, who was succeeded by Thomas E. Watson, Georgia Democrat, Colorado, and Gore, Democrat, Oklahoma.

Others retiring members were DeLoach, Kentucky; Gay, Louisiana; Johnson, South Dakota; Kirby, Arkansas; Henderson, Nevada; Smith, Arizona; Smith, Maryland; and Philbin, California, all Democrats.

Another retiring notable was Vice President Thomas R. Marshall who will go on Chautauqua circuits next week. He will sail for Europe in May to remain until fall.

Tonight the Portsmouth College of Business boys and girls will play a double header with the Otway high school boys and girls' quintets. The games to be staged in Wilhelmstuhl hall. The first game, the girls' contest, will start at 7:30 o'clock.

Friday night the Portsmouth College of Business boys played at Otway and won 21 to 15 from the high school lads.

SCOUT GAMES

Troop 3 tightened their hold on first place in the Boy Scout Junior League last night, when they defeated Troop 5's Junior team on the latter's floor by the score of 12 to 8. Troop 3's team felt very cramped on the small floor, and their defense and attack were shattered, and repeated shots for the basket netted small results. Muller was shifted to forward in the second half, owing to his ability to find the basket. Barber and Wolf played good games for Troop 5.

The lineups were as follows:

Troop 3..... Troop 5
Brodbeck..... R. F. Wolf
Kaylor..... L. F. Brunner
Windell..... C. Ruhlman
Muller..... R. G. Barber
Green..... L. G. Mickelthwait
Field goals: Muller 2, Windell 2.
Foul goals: Barber 4.

This frock, made by the great Lucile, is fashioned of jade crepe and is one of the adorably youthful creations for spring wear. The long waisted blouse is a pretty feature which is seen on many of the new spring costumes. Here it is made open in the front and sleeveless, and so gray chiffon is used for a vestee or gump.

STEINKAMP'S

Here Is A Real "Cackle"

H. O. Newman, of 921 Second street is a chicken fancier who believes his 13 Rhode Island Reds and white leghorns have an egg laying record that compares favorably with any in the city and even the county. The Reds were hatched April 4 and started laying Nov. 6, aged 7 months. The leghorns were hatched April 16 and started laying September 18, aged 5 months. The record of the 31 to date is as follows: October 188, November 309, December 362, January 322, February 532. Some of the leghorns went into a light molt late in December and did not finish until late in January. This accounts for the decrease in egg production in January. Mr. Newman says he would like to see some of the other "cacklers" put in their records for the winter months when eggs were scarce and the price was about 90 cents per dozen.

Editor The Times:

I read with interest in your paper where my city friends have been keeping egg records of their hens. As I had kept a similar record of my hens for the months of January and February I at once did a little figuring, which disclosed the fact that my chickens showed just a little better record than any of them. I have 12 Rhode Island Red hens of different ages, six of them were hatched last April five are two year-old hens and one almost four years old.

Their record shows they laid 217 eggs in January and 206 in February. Each hen averaged a fraction over 17 eggs per month.

There is another interesting incident connected with this egg record, that I will give the 4-year-old hen credit for, she laid two eggs during the month of January that weighed 1-1/2 pound each.

Howard Preston, one of our leading merchants, can verify the statement as to weight of one of these large eggs. HERMAN FIELD, Who-lersburg.

Tackers Win From Rounders

In the Seaboard bowling league last night the Tackers put on their bowling legs and rolled three dandy rams, taking all three from the Rounders. When the grand total was compiled the Rounders were found to be 470 short. Sikes and Marple made the high totals for the winners.

The second series was between the Turners and Office Force unit, a usual the Office Force succeeding in duplicating the efforts of the Directors by dropping all three. Pressler was high man for the Turners. The scores:

WOMEN WHO CANNOT WORK

Read Mrs. Corley's Letter and Benefit by Her Experience

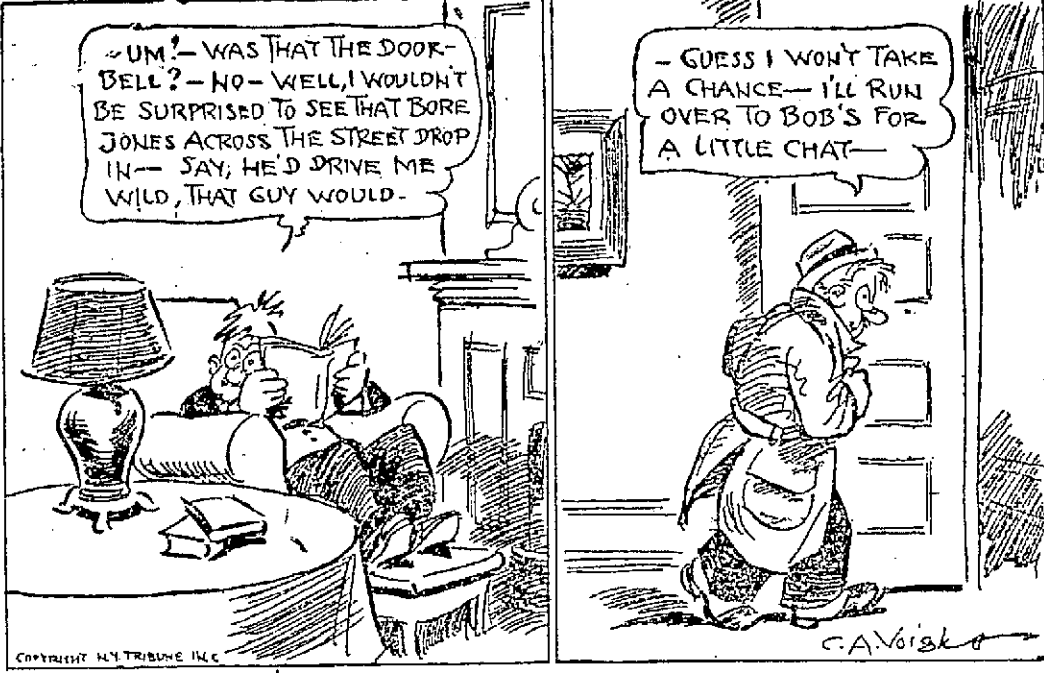

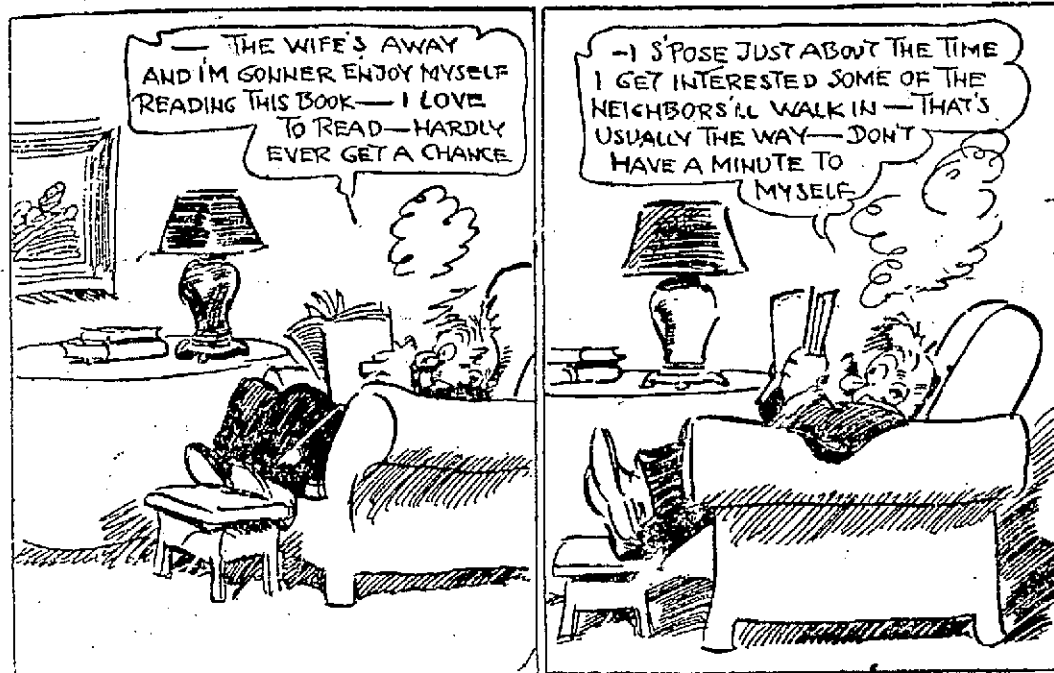

Edmund, S. C.—"I was run down with nervousness and female trouble every month. I was not able to do any work and tried a lot of medicines but got no relief. I saw your medicine advertised in a little book, and I had not taken two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before I could see it was helping me. I am keeping house now and am able to do all of my work. I cannot say enough for your medicine. It has done more for me than any doctor. You may print this letter if you wish."—ELIZABETH C. CORLEY, care of A. P. Corley, Edmund, S. C.

Ability to stand the strain of work is the privilege of the strong and healthy, but how our hearts ache for the weak and sickly women struggling with their daily rounds of household duties, with backaches, headaches, nervousness and almost every movement brings a new pain. Why will not the mass of letters from women all over this country, which we have been publishing, convince such women that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help them just as surely as it did Mrs. Corley?

Two Matches Tonight

The much mooted question of super-lority between the Masonic All Stars and the Selby All Stars will be settled at the latter's alleys when the two bowling teams meet in the third contest of the season. The series now stands fifty-fifty and much interest has been manifested in the contest for tonight. The Masons will line up as follows:

Tatton, Nodder, Clara, Sheridan and Walters. Selby's line up will be Marple, Troesch, Bauer, Burtrum, Fought, Williams and Reinhard. The games will start promptly at 7:30 o'clock and the general public is invited to witness the match.

While this contest is going on, there will be something doing at the Penant alleys, where the Anchor Men of Portsmouth will clash with the Ashland Five. It will be recalled that Ashland trimmed the Anchor Men when the latter invaded the Kentucky metropolis a couple of weeks ago. The game tonight will be for a nice sized purse and will be desperately contested. This contest, too, will begin at 7:30 o'clock.

Legion Team Beats Wheelersburg

American Legion 22, Wheelersburg high school 9, was the outcome of the basketball game staged in the P. H. S. gym Friday night before a mere handful of court fans. The game was fast from the start to finish, the Legion five shooting more accurately than the visitors while the Wheelersburg high school lads passed the ball and played a five man defensive game in fine style. The Legion five had the advantage of playing on their home floor and this figured considerably in the result, the visitors shooting at but not hitting the basket.

Forner and Shoemaker played the best game for the Legion, these lads making several good shots after taking the ball all the way down the floor.

ASHLAND SWAMPS P. H. S. GIRLS

ASHLAND, KY., March 5.—The girls' basketball quintet of Ashland just about set a world's record for the cage game when they walloped Portsmouth High Girls yesterday afternoon by the score of 74 to 1, on the Ashland court.

The Kentucky lassies opened up like a hose after right from the start and piled up the markers with such swiftness that it was almost impossible to count the baskets.

The Ashland girls are called "The Kittens." If they are Kitties, then a wildcat is a canary.

Forward Riggs was the big gunner for the Nightriders. She gave her team-mates a joy ride with 13 double-doubles, besides playing a whole of a game on the court. Glenna Woods, who has more popper than a cookie, chipped in with 13 double fingers, and rocketing one "bucket" from midcourt. This little lady now has a total of 362 points for 16 games. If this is the best mark that has ever been hung up in this section, kindly send us a wireless at our expense. Captain Nalle was another "sweetie" that enjoyed a big evening. Her work from the pivot station was brilliant at all times.

Portsmouth was never able to get close enough to the net to turn in a field goal, their lonely marker being the result of a foul goal.

The line-ups:

P. H. S.	A. H. S.
Coburn	Woods
Doll	Riggs
Duduit	Nalle
G. Selby	Ball
Armstrong	Burber
Sells—M. Selby, R. Locke for P. H. S.; Fitzgerald, Murphy, Lantieri for A. H. S.
Field Goals—Riggs 16, Woods 13, Nalle 7, Fitzgerald 1.
Foul Goals—Duduit 1.

Do Tell, P. H. S. Bows To New Boston Five

Presenting another changed lineup the P. H. S. boys played in the New Boston gym Friday night and lost a hard fought game to New Boston, 25 to 24. The locals have been handicapped by constant changes in lineup and last night Gulkar and Brant, guards, were out of the game, and Moritz was put in at guard. This change no doubt weakened the lineup of the P. H. S. quintet as Brant played guard against Scotoville and his work there stamped him as eligible for the first team. That Gulkar or Brant been in the game at guard, the result no doubt would have been different.

Forward Schirrmann starred at basket shooting for P. H. S., making several shots from difficult angles on the court.

The lineups were as follows:

P. H. S.	N. B. H. S.
Monk	R. F.
Schirrmann	L. F.
Schirrmann	Stratton

Cramer..... C. Elliott
Heer..... R. G. Hughes
Moritz..... L. G. J. Counts
Field goals: Schirrmann 6, Cramer 2, Monk 2, Stratton 5, B. Counts 4, J. Counts 1.
Foul goals: Schirrmann 4, Stratton 3, B. Counts 2.

PAT MORAN STANDS PAT

CINCINNATI, March 5.—Advises from the Cisco, Texas, training camp of the Cincinnati National League baseball team tell of the arrival there yesterday of outfielder Dennis Williams, Maynard Felix, first baseman, and pitcher Herb Brenton. This brought the total players on hand to nineteen, with 12 absentees.

"I am going to take a chance right off the reel," said Manager Moran.

Sum Crane and Pat Duncan are to leave Cincinnati today for Cisco.

"Remember me, is all I ask," might well be the plaint of Roger Selby, as he reads that as soon as he left them his team lost as many games on the straight as they lost in all the previous part of the season. Without him the Cubs seem doomed, though any one who has seen the team play knows they will fight to the last ditch as they did last night when they met their old opponents, the High School Faculty. The first game the Faculty won easily, 21 to 12. No team ever fought harder than the Cubs did in the next game, but the Faculty never played such a good game either, and after bringing it to 20-20, the Faculty put across the final score. The Faculty started out by running up a large score in the third game, but the Cubs showed their refusal to bow to defeat, by coming up from behind and winning the game, 21 to 14.

Prof. Eccles was undoubtedly the star of the afternoon playing a brilliant game. Prof. Appel played a very steady game and when the ball came his way, it went back. All the rest of the team did excellently, while Griffin and Erfuth did the best on the other side of the net.

The lineups were:

High School Faculty: Coach McComb, Prof. Appel, Prof. Eccles, E. F. Nasse, A. K. Wheeler and D. Jones.

Selby Calls: N. B. Griffin (Capt.), Edick Heck, Choice Freeman, C. P. Henck, Ray Erfuth and Fred Leroy.

The Allies-Selby Vets game was postponed till the third game this afternoon.

COLUMBUS, March 5.—George Kotsos, Columbus, defeated "Farmer" Burns, of Omaha, in two straight falls in a heavyweight wrestling match here last night. He used the flying crutch in securing both falls, the first one in one hour and six minutes and the second in 21 minutes.

THE RECORD IS CLOSED

WOODROW WILSON is no longer president of these United States. His eight years' incumbency ended Friday at noon and one of the greatest and most tragic figures in public life, yielded up his trust and retired to private life, a physical wreck, the victim of his entire and intense consecration to the service of the nation and the world, quickened by the most malignant and unjust partisan attacks that ever disgraced an opposition.

When one views the volume and virulence of those assaults, their persistence and power, he must be both amazed and alarmed that there are organized forces in the country so pregnant of evil and destruction.

However, let that pass, for the present and take calm and brief view of the career of Woodrow Wilson as the chief magistrate.

From beginning to end his administration was confronted with grave and vexing problems, some transmitted from other administrations, some arising out of the tremendous cataclysm that the nations were near approaching and in which they became involved. To all he addressed himself with singular zeal, a mind wonderfully clear and an exalted idealism. Here was both his fortune and misfortune as an executive. He had fine scorn for the dubious, the weak in honor and the grossly practical, but it lessened his valuation of the strength there was in the general selfishness of humanity. He considered too exclusively the high end to be sought and gave scant concern to the agencies that might lie in the way.

Nevertheless, he wrought to infinite effect. He had written on the statute books the great federal reserve act that put the country upon a solid and enduring financial basis; he vivified the nation and the world to what the Great War meant and his ringing summons brought the people to perform prodigious deeds that were so marvelous in achievement as to transcend the potentialities of man as man had theretofore conceived.

These are but two things, though they be the chief, of the accomplishments worked under his direction, but even if they stood alone they would be sufficient in themselves to write Woodrow Wilson as a great president and a great leader.

To him the future will atone and make justification. Now is no time to judge him justly. The whole world has gone awry. Half of it was plunged in an orgy of bloodshed, the other half was submerged in an orgy of extravagance. Judgment is taking toll of folly now and the world doesn't know what and how to think. It's dominating impulse is still destruction. Adversity's second effect, however is sobering. In a year, in a decade, in time, the cloud that the world itself raised about Woodrow Wilson will raise and disappear. Then will he appear as he was, a patriot, a statesman, an idealist of action, who served and sacrificed for the profit and glory of his kind.

May peace and good will follow Woodrow Wilson the man in as full measure as clamor and hate pursued Woodrow Wilson the president.

NOT EVEN A MOLEHILL

THE sage conclusion here reached is the newspapers are responsible for much of the confusion and unrest that exists in the ruins of the earth.

They are too much addicted to making a mountain out of a molehill.

A gross example of this is presented in the disturbance, that had Panama as its center, and that was so grossly exaggerated in last week's cable news. Therein it was represented that Costa Rica had invaded Panama with a large army, the latter had appealed to the United States to interfere and unless they did so a war would be precipitated that would involve all of Central and a part of South America.

As a matter of fact the wild alarm had no foundation. A band of marauders, supposedly from Costa Rica, had seized a small village on the Panama frontier and when an expedition was sent against them "the strong army" surrendered without firing so much as a single shot and it was found it numbered just 30 bold warriors, equipped with 25 guns of ancient vintage and far more dangerous to the user than the object to be fired at.

It is not altogether fair, however, to put the blame for exciting unrest on the newspapers through dissemination of such perversions of conditions. They do not gather cable news directly, but buy it from associations and like all purchasers of things unsight and unseen they have to take what is given them and as it is handed over to them hot they haven't much time to weigh it critically and estimate just the quantity of truth and exaggeration contained.

What, what's this! Harding says he is seriously thinking of following President Wilson's example and delivering his messages to congress orally.

It has dawned upon us. We didn't know just exactly why we were so favorably impressed with Andy Mellon for secretary, but now we learn he is an Irishman, and that accounts for it.

Don't say John D. Rockefeller is that piker. He has given two million dollars to the relief fund for war sufferers abroad, principally for orphans. Take a man who opens his purse to the cry or orphans and you've got a pretty good one, no matter what you may have thought about him before.

Senator Harding told them down in Kentucky, Tuesday, that this depression will soon be over. Well, all we have to say is that we hope his prophecy is far more accurate than his characterization of present conditions as a depression.

Many a man is more interested in his own thirst than in the prediction that Niagara will be dry in a hundred years.

The government has an advantage over most individuals—it knows how to get money out of the banks to meet its obligations.

NEW FABRICS

By Frederic J. Haskin

NEW YORK, March 5.—All of us will soon be wearing garments made from seaweed and grass, if the vegetable fabrics recently produced by German textile manufacturers become popular in this country.

The Germans have achieved some remarkable results in the textile line by proceeding upon the assumption that almost any vegetable product, from a dandelion to a parsnip, can be turned into clothing if necessity demands it. During the war, necessity did. The German supplies of wool and cotton became exhausted; they were unable to smuggle their new supplies through the blockade, so there was nothing left for German chemists to do but to produce something new in the way of fabrics.

An exhibit of these novelties ground out under the exigencies of war, was recently held by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce here, and was widely attended by American textile manufacturers. It included samples of overcoatings, table cloths, paper sport jackets, sweaters, underwear, stockings and socks, worsted and many other men's and women's garments—all made from various vegetable products heretofore scorned as being of little value. Nettles, hops, willow bark, pine needles, cornstarch and asparagus are merely a few of the things represented in the materials.

Instead of being brittle and fragile and impractical for windy weather, as might be supposed, the new vegetable fabrics are soft and serviceable and guaranteed to withstand the toughest gate. "The German underwear, made from China grass, is said to be better than that made of pure wool or wool and cotton, as it prevents the garments from shrinking. It is also declared by textile experts to be of better wearing quality."

A large variety of clothing sources is something absolutely new in the history of our civilization. It is revolutionary—for ever since men decided that they looked better in clothes they have been making them from the same old products, which are wool, silk, cotton and flax. Archaeological records show that the arts of spinning and weaving were in a late stage of development as far back as 2600 B. C., which is as far back as the matter can be traced, and that these four fabrics were well known then.

The Four Sources
In other words, all that we wear—our frocks and frock coats, our neckties and stocks and lace and frills and furbelows—comes from only these four sources, that were discovered far back when the race was young.

Our wool supply is obtained chiefly from the pelage of sheep, while a small quantity is also obtained from the hair of certain goats (Cashmere and Mohair, for example) as well as from the hair of camels. The earliest cloth-makers tapped the same sources for their wool.

All of our raw silk is provided for us by obdurate caterpillars, which secrete the substance in their glands and spin it into cocoons or cases in which they make their change from worm to moth. And the Monacians had the silk worms well trained for this purpose centuries ago.

Cotton, obtained from the seed pod of the cotton plant, was also well understood by the ancients, while early history records the use of rich flax made from flax.

In recent years, but two other sources have been added to these four. American manufacturers have succeeded in producing rough textiles, such as burkap, from the jute plant, and American chemists, after much experimentation, have been able to produce artificial silk.

Then the Germans began their experiments with various plants. These commenced really some years before the war, and the first successful vegetable fabrics were brought to this country as early as 1914. But it was the war, which for the time being eliminated the four big textile staples from the market, that gave them their chance.

According to a statement of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, the new vegetable fiber industry was established at Fuerstberg, Germany, in 1912. During the first year in which the plant was operated it produced its activities merely to the manufacture and sale of fibers—the raw product.

"In 1913 spinning machinery was set up and since then the spinning of yarn from these fibers has been carried on on an ever-increasing scale. In the eight years of its existence the products of this concern have covered a wide range of vegetable fibers, including China grass, Australian seaweed, jute, old jute rags and shoddy worsted yarn. A number of others were worked up during the war and extensively used in the textile industry. Some of these fibers were abundant after the war, owing to the fact that the supply in Germany was not sufficient to warrant their permanent use.

Cloth From Grass
"The vegetable fiber derived from China grass is known as solidonia. It is similar to ramie, which is known and used in the United States. The German fiber company, by means of a special process, produces a long, fine, soft and curly fiber. It looks very much like wool and mixes readily with that product, thus opening a wide field for its use in the woolen industry. Solidonia gained a wide use on account of shortage of wool during the war. As a substitute for linen, solidonia has been used in Germany for the manufacture of table linen of beauty and strength. It has also been used for machine belting. Hosiery mills and underwear mills have produced from it stockings which are difficult to tear; unshrinkable underwear and sporting jackets of fine quality and strength."

"The German woolen mill have also manufactured an array of cloth which, composed of 75 percent wool and 25 percent solidonia, surpasses, it is asserted, in tensile strength any pure wool cloth. Women's clothing and men's clothing of half solidonia and half wool or shoddy cloth is likewise proving highly successful."

"Another fiber from which has been obtained splendid results," the Bureau's report continues, "is the fiber known as posidonia—a vegetable product. It is derived from seaweed dredged in Australia and washed in sweet water. Brought to Germany, the fiber is subjected to a chemical treatment to soften it and make it resilient, the original fiber being stiff and harsh."

"The staple of this fiber is declared to be equal to a medium staple wool, and it is spun on the worsted and woolen system."

The fiber is characterized by an elasticity and springiness, and the cloth, which is made out of pure posidonia, appears to show scarcely any creases. Posidonia is expected to fill a particularly large demand in the carpet industry."

"The chief way in which jute is employed in the United States is in the form of cheap lining and burlap. This German company has accomplished some unusual results with jute. By a special process of chemical treatment, a long blue fiber has been produced, which can be spun into a pure fabric or mixed with wool. From the old jute rags the company also makes a good grade of shoddy cloth, which is being used with such amazing results in women's costumes, overcoats, and sport jackets that many experienced textile men have been unable to tell it from all-wool cloth."

The exhibit of the Bureau was planned chiefly for the benefit of American textile makers, who have been much interested in the German products. If German chemists can produce materials from grass and seaweed and nettles, there is every reason to believe that American chemists can also, and thus, in time, perhaps even that baleful plant, the true raw wool, may be converted into a neat and useful fabric.

Q. How does the number of men in the Regular Army of the United States compare with Great Britain and Japan in proportion to the population of the countries? E. L. D.

A. In the United States, 22 per cent of the population is in the Regular Army, while in Japan the percentage is 47 per cent and in Great Britain 55 per cent. Switzerland has the highest proportion of her population in the Army, the percentage being 125.

Q. How can I rid potted plants of earthworms? R. L. W.

A. Earthworms at the roots of plants are a torment to the plant and may be controlled by placing the pot in water up to the surface of the soil. Keep adding water and the earthworms will be driven to the surface where they may be caught and removed. Watering with lime water will also drive the worms out but care must be exercised in the use of lime with certain plants.

Q. What size was the discus and what was it made of? J. G. R.

A. The ancient discus was the metal of stone and about 12 inches in diameter.

Q. What is meant by a free public house? H. F.

A. This is an English expression and refers to a tavern not belonging to a brewer, so that the landlord is free to brew his own beer or purchase from whom he chooses.

Q. What is an air meter used for? K. M. S.

A. This is a special form of anemometer designed to measure the flow of air in mine shafts, ventilating ducts, galleries, chimneys, etc.

Q. Was Albert Hubbard drowned when the Titanic sank? J. R. W.

A. Albert Hubbard, the lecturer and author, lost his life in the sinking of the Lusitania May 7th, 1915.

Q. What are the names given to the red, orange, and blue containers that druggists have in their windows? A. M. R.

A. These jars of colored liquor are known as "Druggists' Show Bottles."

Q. Did Benjamin Franklin leave any money for the encouragement of education in Boston? E. C. E.

A. Benjamin Franklin willed 100 pounds sterling to the City of Boston for the purpose of giving medals to school children of Boston who met certain conditions. A footnote in Bigelow's "Franklin" states that the sum has more than doubled since his death. In a codicil, Franklin also left 1,000 pounds sterling to be let out at interest of 5 per cent to such young artificers as could meet conditions stipulated in his will.

Q. What is the earliest authentic date known? N. R. C.

A. The Sumerians state that to the present time 40 date before the 8th Century, B. C. has been fixed with certainty, and a fairly close approximation is possible to about 1000 B. C. only.

Q. How far from the earth are the seven stars? M. H.

A. The Naval Observatory says the distance from the earth of the "seven stars" of Pleiades is not known with any degree of exactness. It is estimated, however, that it cannot be less than 250 light-years or 1500 trillion miles, and that their distance from each other is in general not less than 3 or 4 light-years or 20 trillion miles.

Success
It's doing your job the best you can.
And being just to your fellowman.
It's making money, but holding friends.
And staying true to your aims and ends.
It's figuring how and learning why.
And looking forward and thinking high.
And dreaming a little and doing much.
It's keeping always in closest touch.
With what is finest in word and deed.
It's being thorough yet making speed.
It's daring boldly the field of chance.
While making labor a brave romance.
It's going onward despite defeat.
And fighting staunchly, but keeping sweet.

It's being clean and it's playing fair.
It's laughing lightly at Dame Despair.
It's looking up at the stars above.
And drinking deeply of life and love.
It's struggling on with the will to win.
It's taking loss with a cheerful grin.
It's sharing sorrow, and work, and mirth.
And making better this good old earth.

It's serving, striving through strain and stress.
It's doing your modest—that's success.

Mixing Genders
The following story is told by ex-President Taft:

A Frenchman who knew English only fairly well was asked to make a speech and obtained the help of an Englishman to help him prepare it. The Frenchman started the speech as follows: "My dear friends, I do not wish to cockroach upon your time but—"

After the dinner the Englishman reproved his friend.

"Isn't that what you told me to say?" he replied.

"I'll said for you to say 'I'll don't want to cockroach upon your time'."

"Well," replied the Frenchman, "these English genders are too much for me."

At Table
Robert—Mr. Smith (sister Sue's beau), will you please cool this soup for me?
Sister Sue—(Chortled). Why, baby, what a request!

New-York-Day-By-Day

BY O. O. MONTYRE

NEW YORK, March 5.—Snappy young cut shooters, who hope eventually to achieve gold nonogrammatic dignities, and the young girls who believe that the price of six is babies are now toddling to perdition, according to certain pulpsters who constantly flay vice in this wicked city. It was first predicted that the fox trot would bring about moral chaos.

But when grandmas cut off a lower section of their skirts, flipped on a little rouge and did a daily afternoon trot it was not quite so bad and the world did not collapse. Then came the shimmy. Criticism was not confined to the pulpit. Hardened Broadwayites actually gasped at some of the lewd-toed dancers who stood in a spotlight and slithered in ague-like seizures.

New York was accustomed to seeing knees and acetate gowns that left nothing to the imagination on the musical comedy stage but the shimmy was blatantly sensual. There wasn't any real excuse for it, unless perhaps to make vulgarity a virtue by exhibiting it in gilded surroundings.

Notorious shimmy dancers from Chicago and Barbary Coast underworlds were actually featured in girl and music shows and their names paraded in electric lights. The shimmy died as it deserved to die—quickly and without tears.

Several months ago came the toddle. It was in the beginning a silly, harmless kind of dance that a college boy might enjoy in an effort to show off. It was a dance executed on the ball of the foot by rocking back and forth.

Some of the society girls danced it without shocking results. Then Broadway hoovers gave it a new twist. In the last few weeks the toddle has become more vulgar than the shimmy—if that is possible. There are interpolations that would bring the blush to calloused cheeks.

The "professors" of cheap dancing academies in the Tenderloin are now advertising lessons in toddling. One learns to dance the toddle! Cleopatra invented it and that was the way she seduced Napoleon. Of course historical data is slightly mixed—but you get the idea!

Down at Great Neck where Jimmy Lardner plays golf and grinds out countless flirts, there is a celebrated loafer who has never done a day's work. The other day Lardner was on his way to the golf course at 6 o'clock. He met the loafer outside his house.

"How did you happen to be up so early?" asked Lardner with just a touch of sarcasm.

"Well," said the loafer, "people are always bragging about being early risers. Why, Mr. Lardner, I just missed being up to get my wife off to work at the laundry in ten years."

Speaking of loafing and other delightful topics, it is amazing how one gets into the habit of dropping work on Saturday in New York. In the summer no one works on Saturday most of the time and the rest of the time a half day. Those who have work that does not require presence at an office finally drop all efforts at toil on Saturday. The industries rebel at first and do their daily chores with a sort of holier-than-thou attitude of mind. And then they begin to slip, sliding a half day and then a half day now and then—and finally they succumb to the workless Saturday.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

By W. G. SIBLEY

The Sibley Service, Gallipoli, Ohio

Two Guides For Patriots
No man has excelled Washington in sound sage advice on the foreign policy of our country, and no man has put his finger with more accuracy and wisdom on domestic affairs than Lincoln.

These two leaders in national thought had ever foremost in mind and heart the welfare of the country they loved, and for that reason are more trusted and honored by the people than any of all the other Presidents.

Lincoln was an apostle of work, thrift and human rights. When he talked or wrote on either of these subjects his thoughts and language took on solemnity, the strength, the balance, the dignity, almost the authority of Biblical utterances. Take his utterance on property, for instance, so sound in these times when filberts and socialistic ranters decry those whose industry and self-denial have rewarded them with substantial accumulations. He said:

"Property is the fruit of labor. Property is desirable. It is a positive good to the world. That some should be rich shows that others may become rich and hence is an encouragement to industry and enterprise. Let not him who is houseless pull down the house of another, but let him labor diligently and build one for himself, thus assuring by example that his own shall be safe from violence when built."

Those five sentences go to the very marrow of personal and national progress. The whole story is included in them. They square with every consideration of true manhood, justice and human worth. Their value is a thousand times that of all books ever written on socialistic and communistic theories.

A Wife's Confession
In this period of feminine dissatisfactions with the conditions under which women live in this country, it is cheering to get a note of happiness from one woman who is doing exactly what the best women of America are doing. She does not appear in a problem novel or a newspaper interview to accuse society or anybody else of thwarting her claims for a "career." She just writes to a newspaper that she is the mother of three children, financially able to be free of the actual physical care of her children and household, and dwells in a happy home.

Asounding! She adds that authors trying to cause her and other home makers to feel petty and frivolous and commonplace are wasting their efforts. She just writes to a newspaper that she would be glad to change places with her! An adroit thrust, that. She includes this sound advice to the Sisters of Discontent: "As long as our husbands remain satisfied with us as wives and mothers, we should be proud and satisfied."

Mr. Sibley says this woman wields greater and better influence than any malcontent in the whole tribe of disturbers and enemies of domestic life.

The Machinery of Thought
For some source, professional or otherwise, we have acquired the understanding that every thought in a man's head destroys one or more brain cells which cannot be rebuilt or replaced so long as he remains awake. But when he sleeps or enters mother Nature, busies herself with restoring new cells for those used and we wake up with an entirely new set.

That is an interesting theory. It is a waste brain cells on. Every thought kills a cell, but thinking strengthens brain power. Thus we have better thinking by destroying the physical machinery we use in thinking. It doesn't sound just right, viewed as a purely physical function. But thoughts are not physical things. They are spiritual. It is an impossible way to come to the answer of an apparent contradiction. May it not be that the soul absorbs and retains the thoughts manufactured by the dying brain cells, and stores them up for future use?

Let it go at that, if you will, but the notion that many people do very little or very light sleeping, persist. Their heads are full of brain cell clutters.

Hotel Prices To Be Hit
The international association of commercial travelers is preparing a dose for profiteering hotels, both urban and rural. It has sent letters to 600,000 traveling salesmen, listed innumerable hotels charging exorbitant prices for meals and rooms, and in other ways picked a rail for the bags in the hotel business. In about thirty days the offenders will begin to pay the penalty for their extortion in villages, small towns and cities all over the country. The traveling man knows how to pass the word where it will burn deepest.

Wise Jottings
Farsightedness is largely a matter of careful planning.
If a man has neither friends nor enemies he has lived in vain.
When one boy sees another eating something he always gets hungry.
It takes a genius to get 10 cents worth of satisfaction out of a 5 cent chair.
Some men prefer the joys they are after here to the prospective joys of the hereafter.
The man who can acknowledge a mistake without blaming it on someone else has true moral courage.
Not As Easy As He Knew
Tuesday—What is the matter with you, William, haven't you any ideas in your head?
William: I don't know, ma never said nothing about them when she combed my head this morning.

The Bark Test
Two boys at a dog-show were gazing at a valuable Skye terrier, which had so much hair that it looked more like a wisp of hair than a dog.
"Which one is 'is' 'and' 'Tom'?" asked one.
"Blowed if I know," was the reply, "but 'em, I'll stick a pin in him, and you look which end barks!"—(Brighty London).

WHO'S WHO

In The Days News

COL. THEODORE ROOSEVELT

If Theodore Roosevelt, named assistant secretary of the navy in the Harding administration, does not do so far as did his illustrious father, it will not be that the fates did not decree for him a similar start. It was from the relative obscurity of the assistant secretaryship of the navy department that the older Theodore leaped into fame by way of the Spanish war. As a matter of fact, Theodore, the younger, started out of his political career with far greater renown than his father, for the former, true to his traditions, dropped his business connections almost the moment America decided to fight Germany and went into training in Plattsburg. He emerged from the war a lieutenant colonel. Thus accelerated, he entered politics and was a seat in the assembly in Albany. Roosevelt returned from France in command of the Twenty-sixth infantry. Not all his experience in France was gained in the line, however, for he spent considerable time in command with General Pershing.

He is thirty-four years old, a graduate of Harvard, a lawyer and possessor of many of the characteristics of his father. In his new position he will occupy the berth filled so capably in the declining administration by Franklin Delano Roosevelt, his distant relative—about sixth or seventh cousin. He was married to Miss Eleanor Butler Alexander, of New York, in 1910. They have three children.

Mr. Roosevelt captured a degree at Harvard in three years and then set out to learn the carpet business. In 1912 he abandoned carpets for a clerkship in the brokerage offices of Rockwell, Griscom & Jenks, 40 Wall street. Two years later he became a member of the firm of Montgomery, Clatter & Tyler, bankers and brokers of Philadelphia. He managed that firm's New York office.

He was as active as anybody in organizing the American Legion, but refused to compete for the national chairmanship of that organization because it had been noised about that he had organized the legion that he might benefit politically. He made vigorous denial of such intent at the time he declined to run for chairman.

Mr. Roosevelt went up and down the country campaigning for President-elect Harding and indulging in acrimonious political controversy with Franklin D. Roosevelt. His career in the Albany assembly was not precipitous. It seemed as though he preferred to learn by observation, letting the veterans do most of the active work.
